

Introducing Chancellor Candidate, Kevin Brockbank

Open Forums for Dr. Brockbank will be held on March 10, 2023
Personal biography was provided by the candidate

Dr. Kevin Brockbank has more than 27 years of experience as an educator, mentor and leader in community colleges across Washington, Utah and Montana. He has served the Community Colleges of Spokane since 2015, first as the Vice Provost of Strategic Partnerships for the District and then in 2017 he was selected as the President of Spokane Community College.

Dr. Brockbank is a principle-centered leader who relies on his authentic approach to build trust relationships in order to fulfill the mission of his institution and support his unwavering dedication to student success. His vision includes a commitment to collaborative problem-solving to prepare for impending changes and challenges. He believes in building relationships that enhance the college's impact in its service region while developing fiscal and facility planning mechanisms that are dynamic enough to support strategic priorities. He is committed to responding to local workforce training needs and to providing strong support of his faculty and staff.

Dr. Brockbank is known as an energetic leader who understands the value of risk in the pursuit of successful innovation. His previous efforts in pushing systemic change to support online, hybrid, competency-based education and other delivery modalities gained him national recognition and led to important gains in student success. In his current role as President at SCC, he uses the same sense of urgency to push holistic student supports through the implementation of Guided Pathways and a comprehensive Equity, Diversity and Inclusion Strategic Plan.

Dr. Brockbank earned his doctorate in Educational Leadership, a master's in Curriculum Studies, and bachelor's in Business Information Technology Education all from the University of Montana.
